Report of the Management Company

The fund invests in companies that are listed on stock and bond exchanges and that have a positive impact through contribution to the transition to a more sustainable society. In some instances, the fund may also invest in sovereign and sub-sovereign bonds. Investments in the fund address seven sustainable transition themes that contribute to solving global challenges posed by structural trends such as ageing populations, resource scarcity, inequality and social exclusion. Each sub-fund has its own specific risk-return profile, applies a long-term strategy and has a concentrated but well-diversified portfolio.

Impact investment approach

The sub-funds distinguish themselves by their mandates, strict principles and active dialogue with companies. The investment process starts with a long-term vision for the transition towards a more sustainable society. The fund invests in companies that contribute to the progress of seven sustainable transition themes:

- Sustainable Food and Agriculture;
- Sustainable Mobility and Infrastructure;
- Renewable Resources;
- Circular Economy;
- Social Inclusion and Empowerment;
- Innovation for Sustainability; and
- Prosperous and Healthy People.

These transition themes are the cornerstone of the fund's stock selection process, as each company and/or issuer in the portfolio must make a positive contribution to one or more of these themes through its commercial propositions. In addition, all investments must meet the strict Triodos group-wide minimum standards.

The fund invests for positive change - alongside a financial return that is in line with the broader market and at market-aligned risk levels - using disciplined investment criteria and a fully integrated investment and stewardship approach.

In order to provide a more extensive overview of the fund's positive impact in 2021, an annual impact report was published in the first half of 2022. This report, as well as regular updates, are available on www.triodos-im.com.

Macroeconomic developments

In the first half of 2022, only a few years after the emergence of COVID-19, the global economy was dealt another blow: war returned to Europe as Russia invaded Ukraine on 24 February. Consequently, geopolitics started to dictate the macroeconomy again, as Western sanctions and Russian retaliation led to surging commodity prices, supply chain disruptions and declining household and business confidence.

Before the invasion, the global economy was holding up well. Most advanced economies had returned to their pre-COVID economic activity levels, and the stage was set for the final part of the recovery: returning to the pre-COVID growth trend. The removal of most social restrictions led to an increase in activity in the services sector and early signs of gradually easing supply chain disruptions were supportive for manufacturing activity. Meanwhile, unemployment rates in the major advanced economies had reached pre-pandemic lows and corporate strength (high profit margins, low debt ratios) was favourable for investment prospects. And, most importantly, the combination of huge fiscal stimulus and inability to spend during the pandemic had left households with massive excess savings ready to be spent.

At the same, inflation was already surging, due to the disbalance between supply and demand that had materialised after several COVID-lockdowns and the enormous fiscal support across advanced economies. The war in Ukraine added to these inflationary pressures, thereby shattering hopes that peak inflation would soon be left behind. Indeed, inflation kept on rising to new highs across advanced economies as the first half of the year proceeded.

This forced most major central banks to tighten their monetary policies more rapidly and aggressively. The Federal Reserve (Fed) and Bank of England (BoE) hiked their policy interest rates with 150bps and 100bps in the first half of the year, while the European Central Bank (ECB) did not hike yet in the first half of the year but announced the end of the era of negative interest rates would be coming in the third quarter. The ECB also decided to halt its net asset purchases as per July 1st, while the Fed and BoE already started to stop reinvesting the proceeds of maturing bonds. In sharp contrast to its peers, the Bank of Japan did not make any significant changes to its monetary policy, as prices in Japan did not increase to the same extent as they did in other major advanced economies.

Meanwhile, China's zero-tolerance COVID policy also worsened global supply bottlenecks and inflationary pressures, as the Chinese government imposed complete lockdowns on several large cities. This also weighed on global economic activity as Chinese demand cooled. China's growth slowdown triggered the People's Bank of China to modestly ease its monetary policy, going against the global tightening move.

Despite the global economic headwinds, business activity continued to expand in all major advanced economies all throughout the first half of the year. A clear slowdown was however visible in the US, UK, and eurozone. In June, the US and eurozone even experienced the first contraction in manufacturing production in two years. This indicated that the reduction in household purchasing power (with significant wage growth failing to keep up with soaring inflation), tightened financial conditions, and the continued geopolitical instability were starting to have an effect on consumer spending, business investment and international trade. In combination with central banks signalling that their sole focus for the time being was on their price stability mandates, this naturally led to growing recession fears. Trust in central banks being able to achieve a 'soft landing', i.e., bringing down inflation without causing a recession, gradually deteriorated as inflation remained stubbornly high.

Recession risks were most pronounced in the eurozone, as partial Russian gas supply cuts increased the likelihood of a complete export ban from the Russian side. The proximity to the war already made the eurozone economy the main culprit of the war. Soaring global energy prices also disproportionately impacted the UK and Japan, both being net energy importers. The US was more sheltered from war-induced price rises in that respect, being a net energy exporter. Overall, however, some strong sources of resilience partly cushioned the deteriorating economic conditions during the first half of the year: labour markets remained exceptionally strong, pandemic-related excess savings were partly put to work, and companies seemed to have sufficient pricing power to pass through inflationary pressures for the time being.

Sadly, the strengthening economic headwinds mostly resulted in policy choices that directly opposed achieving the world's Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). To partially compensate the loss in household purchasing power, governments mostly implemented generalised measures that lowered the price of electricity and gas for everyone. This goes directly against addressing inequality, as such measures equally favour higher-income households, who have more buffers to cope with these price increases. As a result, energy poverty increased in advanced economies. Next to that, (potential) energy shortages led to the re-opening of coal-fired powerplants. Such measures clearly do not incentivise a reduction in fossil fuel-related energy consumption and are therefore not in line with carbon emissions reduction targets. Therefore, the first half of 2022 has on aggregate been a setback for social and environmental progress in advanced economies. On a global scale, a similar unfavourable development was visible, as war-induced soaring food prices and physical supply disruptions increased food insecurity in several developing countries, and ever-increasing geopolitical tensions made it harder to find a common ground when trying to address existential threats such as climate change and biodiversity loss.

Market developments

Global equity markets fell sharply in the first half of 2022. At first, this was related to worries about stagflation, i.e., high inflation combined with low economic growth. Investors feared that central banks would be unable to tame inflation, which would mean a prolonged period of elevated inflation that would slow consumer spending and business investment. However, central banks reclaimed their credibility with more aggressive communication and measures, but this only resulted in investor sentiment now becoming dominated by recession fears instead of inflation concerns. Investors started to question central bank claims that inflation could be brought under control without causing a recession. Consequently, the perception of increased recession risks extended the downward momentum in equity markets. Overall, the policy pivot made by most major central banks was an important factor causing the fall in equity markets, as it meant the end to the favourable monetary conditions (low interest rates, abundant liquidity) that had driven equity markets to their record-highs.

On a regional level, semi-annual equity returns were worst in Europe in euro terms, but in local currency terms the US was the worst performing region. This makes sense, as the US market is dominated by several big tech companies, which earlier benefitted from low interest rates and working-from-home lockdowns but were now hurt by a reversal of these trends. Within Europe, the UK equity market was outperforming its peers, as energy and financials did well, benefitting from surging commodity prices and rising interest rates. In general, value outperformed growth over the last half year, as economic conditions were favourable for defensive sectors such as utilities, consumer staples and health care.

Global bond markets also generated negative returns in the first half of 2022. Bond yields rose sharply on the back of stubbornly high inflation and increasingly aggressive monetary tightening. The US government bond yield curve flattened as the year proceeded, as a highly aggressive Fed pushed up the short end while the long end became increasingly susceptible to recession fears. The German yield curve ended the first half of the year steeper than it started, as ECB tightening was happening at a more moderate pace. Corporate bonds slightly outperformed sovereign bonds, as credit spreads remained tighter.

Triodos Euro Bond Impact Fund

Investment strategy

Global bond markets generated negative returns in the first half of 2022. Bond yields rose on the back of rising inflation expectations and a global shift towards monetary tightening. In the benchmark, corporate bonds slightly outperformed sovereign bonds and government-related bonds as credit spreads remained tighter. In the portfolio sovereign bonds underperformed due to their longer maturity which was negative in an environment of monetary tightening. The sub-fund remained defensively positioned, with a neutral duration and a focus on high-quality bonds. All bonds in the portfolio have a clear fit with one of the seven sustainable transition themes.

In the first half of 2022, two bond issuers were removed from the portfolio, whereas four new bond issuers were added. The two bond issuers removed are Nationwide and Carrefour. The sub-fund had one bond of each issuer in its portfolio and both bonds have matured.

Within Renewable Resources, the sub-fund invested in a green bond issued by Réseau de Transport d'Électricité (RTE). As France's sole transmission system operator, the company plays an important role in the country's ambition of further decarbonization. Within Sustainable Mobility and Infrastructure, the sub-fund invested in a sustainability bond issued by Aedifica and a green bond issued by Austria. Aedifica specialises in care homes for the elderly. The proceeds of the Austrian green bond are invested in different areas like clean transportation, renewable energy production and environmentally sustainable management. Within the Prosperous and Healthy People theme, a corporate bond issued by Coloplast was added to the sub-fund. Coloplast develops and provides health care products and services particularly for the treatment of ostomy, incontinence, mastectomy, wound healing and skin care.

Performance

In the first half of 2022, the total net assets of Triodos Euro Bond Impact Fund declined from EUR 392.2 million to EUR 330.3 million. During this period, the return of the sub-fund (Z-dis) was -12.8% (net of fees, including reinvestment of dividends), while the benchmark yielded -12.2%.

The relative performance of the sub-fund was negatively impacted by the longer duration treasury bonds in the portfolio which suffered from the rising interest rates. This caused a negative allocation effect. The selection effect was positive and mainly driven by the selection of corporates and government-related bonds. The curve change contribution was negative.

Triodos Global Equities Impact Fund

Investment strategy

Equity markets were in risk off mode in the first half of the year. The escalation of the conflict between Russia and Ukraine was a negative trigger. In addition, aggressive central bankers scared investors. They fear that central banks go too far in interest rate hikes. Inflation fight is prioritised over economic growth. Given significant declines in equity markets, investors are beginning to discount a recession, starting in Europe. Although the declines were, from a regional perspective, widespread there was no panic selling measured by the moderate increase in the Volatility Index.

The sub-fund continued to focus on selecting companies with solid fundamentals, strong balance sheets and impact-focused management teams, supported by decent cashflow-based valuations, diversifying portfolio risk over and within themes and regions as well as over different types of business models. As a consequence of our positive impact selection criteria and strict minimum standards, the sub-fund was underexposed to the Energy sector that the best performing sector was in the reporting period.

The sub-fund's position in Philips was totally sold. For years now, Philips generated lower profit margins compared to its peers. Furthermore, management seems not in control as there have been several quality issues in recent years.

After a nearly 50% share price decline this year, the sub-fund has started to build a position in Nvidia. Valuation has gotten compelling as multiples are now below the long-term average. Nvidia is a leader in artificial intelligence (AI). AI brings new technologies to the market with a wide variety of often impactful applications. The sub-fund also established a position in Triodos Future Generations Fund.

Performance

In the first half of 2022, the total net assets of Triodos Global Equities Impact Fund declined from EUR 1.1 billion to EUR 982.7 million. During this period, the return of the sub-fund (Z-dis) was -14.2% (net of fees, including reinvestment of dividends), while the benchmark yielded -13.7%.

The performance of the sub-fund was in line with the reference index. Sector allocation effects were negative, due to the underweight positions in Energy and Financials. Positive was the exposure to telecommunications stocks. Operators like KDDI and Deutsche Telekom were among the best performing stocks in the reporting period. The sub-fund's positions in Japanese stocks, such as Sekisui House, Toyota, and Yamaha, did also relatively well. The currency allocation however had a negative impact on the relative performance, as the US dollar (underweight) appreciated versus the euro, while the Japanese yen (overweight) weakened.

Triodos Sterling Bond Impact Fund

Investment strategy

The global rise in bond yields also affected the UK Sterling bond market. In the first half of 2022, yields rose driven by rising inflation numbers and a more aggressive monetary stance of the BoE monetary policy committee. As at 30 June 2022, the policy rate was 1.25%. The 10-year UK gilt benchmark yield rose from 1% at the end of 2021 to over 2.2% at the end of June 2022. Overall, yields in the UK bond market were volatile, particularly in the month of June. The sub-fund has a longer duration than the benchmark, close to five years.

Within the portfolio, a number of new positions were added. The sub-fund added a green bond from Prologis. The proceeds of the bond are spent on green buildings, renewable energy projects and energy efficiency. The bond is classified under the theme of Sustainable Mobility and Infrastructure. A bond from Landwirtschaftliche Rentenbank was added within the theme of Sustainable Food and Agriculture. The bank operates as a government development bank providing refinancing for agriculture. A sustainability bond from Severn Trent was added within the theme of Renewable Resources. The proceeds of the bond are used to (re)finance assets and expenditures with a positive sustainability impact. Within the theme of Social Inclusion and Empowerment two issuers were added, namely, Nationwide Building Society and Pearson. Nationwide Building Society supports the social housing sector, whereas Pearson provides educational products and services. No issuers were removed.

Performance

In the first half of 2022, the total net assets of Triodos Sterling Bond Impact Fund grew from GBP 12.3 million to GBP 15.4 million. During this period, the return of the sub-fund (KR-cap) was -7.1% (net of fees, including reinvestment of dividends), while the benchmark yielded -7.7%.

This relative outperformance was caused by a strong positive selection effect. This effect was driven by the focus on higher quality corporate bonds and government-related bonds which was positive in an environment of rising credit spreads. The underweight position in short-maturity UK Gilts which performed relatively well contributed negative. The curve change effect was positive.

Triodos Impact Mixed Fund (TIMF) – Defensive, Neutral, Offensive

Investment strategy

Capital markets entered a different regime in 2022 as it became clear that inflationary pressures were not transitory at all. The Russian invasion in Ukraine and the renewed Covid lockdowns in China deteriorated the macro-economic landscape. Central banks changed their tone of voice and prioritised a return to price stability at the cost of a weaker economic outlook. This more aggressive stance led to much higher interest rates and indirectly to much lower valuations of equity markets. Triodos Impact Mixed Fund – Defensive, Triodos Impact Mixed Fund – Neutral and Triodos Impact Mixed Fund – Offensive (the Mixed sub-funds) therefore suffered in both asset categories and showed serious negative returns in all risk profiles.

Within equities the defensive stock selection gave some support, but the currency impact was clear negative factor.

The equity market investments of the Mixed sub-funds are selected via an impact- and valuation-based approach and remained heavily focused on Europe and Japan.

In the first half of 2022 the Mixed sub-funds added four new equity positions to the funds. KLA Corp, Akamai and Nvidia, American technology companies which fit the Innovation for Sustainability theme were added. Also, shares of the Japanese cycling products company Shimano were purchased for the sub-funds and are part of the Prosperous and Healthy People theme. The Mixed sub-funds sold their equity positions in Fancl, Philips and Kuraray.

Bond markets were under pressure in all sectors and duration was the main differentiator for relative performance. The Mixed sub-funds maintained their defensive approach with a broadly neutral duration and an overweight position in high-quality bonds.

The focus remained on increasing positive impact, by selecting bond issuers and impact bonds that have a clear fit with one of the seven Triodos sustainable transition themes.

The Mixed sub-funds added three new issuers to the fixed income portfolios. Within Sustainable Mobility and Infrastructure, the Mixed sub-funds invested in green bonds issued by French Réseau de Transport and Belgian Aedifica. In the Prosperous and Healthy People theme, the Mixed sub-funds invested in a newly issued bond of the Danish medical supplies company Coloplast. The Mixed-sub funds shifted their exposure in government bonds from regular bonds to impact-labelled bonds. Recently issued green bonds of the French Republic were added to the sub-funds. Triodos Impact Mixed Fund – Neutral also established a position in Triodos Future Generations Fund.

Performance Triodos Impact Mixed Fund – Defensive

In the first half of 2022, the total net assets of Triodos Impact Mixed Fund – Defensive declined from EUR 45.7 million to EUR 39.9 million. During this period, the return of the sub-fund (Z-dis) was -12.8% (net of fees, including reinvestment of dividends), while the benchmark yielded -12.5%.

The relative performance of Triodos Impact Mixed Fund – Defensive was in line with the reference benchmark.

As the investment style puts strong emphasis on impact and reasonable valuations, the sub-fund has a strong focus on Europe and Japan, unlike the benchmark, which has a strong bias to high-growth US IT and Communication stocks. The rise in interest rates triggered a switch from (high) growth stocks to more value-based investments. The equity selection in the sub-fund was positive, but suffered from adverse currency movements in the US dollar and Japanese yen.

The bond investments for the sub-fund performed in line with the fixed income reference index as well. The slightly higher quality was positive, but balanced by the higher duration in government bonds.

The tactical asset allocation had a small positive impact, as Triodos Impact Mixed Fund – Defensive had a slightly underweight position in equities during the first half of the year.

Performance Triodos Impact Mixed Fund – Offensive

In the first half of 2022, the total net assets of Triodos Impact Mixed Fund – Offensive declined from EUR 59.6 million to EUR 53.9 million. During this period, the return of the sub-fund (Z-dis) was -13.3% (net of fees, including reinvestment of dividends), while the benchmark yielded -13.2%.

The relative performance of Triodos Impact Mixed Fund – Offensive was in line with the reference benchmark

As the investment style puts strong emphasis on impact and reasonable valuations, the sub-fund has a strong focus on Europe and Japan, unlike the benchmark, which has a strong bias to high-growth US IT and Communication stocks. The rise in interest rates triggered a switch from (high) growth stocks to more value-based investments. The equity selection in the sub-fund was positive, but suffered from adverse currency movements in the US dollar and Japanese yen.

The bond investments for the sub-fund performed in line with the fixed income reference index as well. The slightly higher quality was positive but balanced by the higher duration in government bonds.

The tactical asset allocation had a small positive impact, as Triodos Impact Mixed Fund – Offensive had a underweight position in equities during the first half of the year.

Triodos Pioneer Impact Fund

Investment strategy

The first half of 2022 was characterised by worries about high inflation, subsequently tighter monetary policy, the war in Ukraine and recession fears that resulted from these developments. Equity markets responded by selling off. The Information Technology sector was one of the poorest performing sectors in the first six months of 2022, as higher interest rates drove down valuations quite substantially. The Consumer Discretionary sector also performed weakly, as the market anticipated that a combination of high inflation and a potential recession would cause consumers to stop spending on discretionary items. The only real beneficiary of these developments was the Energy sector. Defensive sectors such as Consumer Staples and Healthcare did relatively well, as they managed to limit their losses.

The sub-fund continues to focus on selecting companies with solid fundamentals, strong balance sheets and impact-focused management teams, supported by decent cashflow-based valuations, diversifying portfolio risk over and within themes and regions as well as over different types of business models. Consequently, the sub-fund was not exposed to oil and gas names, and underexposed to banks, insurers and other financial services companies.

The sub-fund established new positions in Japanese staffing company S-Pool, while selling its position in peer Persol. Renova and Teladoc were also sold. The sub-fund also established a position in Triodos Future Generations Fund.

The sub-fund's outperformance was driven by stock selection, while allocation and currency effects were negative. The underweights in the Energy and Industrials sector contributed negatively to the relative performance. Stock selection was most positive in the Consumer Discretionary and Information Technology sectors. The allocation to cash had a positive impact on performance.

Triodos Future Generations Fund

Investment strategy

The first half of 2022 was characterised by worries about high inflation, subsequently tighter monetary policy, the war in Ukraine and recession fears that resulted from these developments. Equity markets responded by selling off. The Information Technology sector was one of the poorest performing sectors in the first six months of 2022, as higher interest rates drove down valuations quite substantially. The Consumer Discretionary sector also performed weakly, as the market anticipated that a combination of high inflation and a potential recession would cause consumers to stop spending on discretionary items. The only real beneficiary of these developments was the Energy sector. Defensive sectors such as

The sub-fund continues to focus on selecting companies with solid fundamentals, strong balance sheets and impact-focused management teams, supported by decent cashflow-based valuations, diversifying portfolio risk over and within themes and regions as well as over different types of business models. Consequently, the sub-fund was not exposed to oil and gas names, banks, insurers and other financial services companies.

The sub-fund was established on 31 March 2022, so all positions in portfolio are new. No stocks were sold off.

Performance

Since the launch of the sub-fund on 31 March 2022, the total net assets of Triodos Future Generations Fund grew from EUR 28 million to EUR 29.1 million.

The sub-fund's underperformance was mainly driven by both stock selection and to a lesser extent by sector allocation and currency effects. The overweight in the Consumer Discretionary sector was the main driver of the relative performance. Stock selection was also most negative in this sector. The Materials sector contributed positively to the relative return of the sub-fund. The net effect of not having exposure to Energy, Financials and Real Estate was positive as well.

Given the short existence of the sub-fund, there are no performance figures available yet.

Outlook

Macroeconomic outlook

The global economic outlook has darkened, as inflation has remained stubbornly high due to a toxic cocktail of war, Western sanctions, Russian retaliation, and lockdowns in China. Ongoing price surges have drastically changed the prospect for monetary policy. Central banks now seem fully committed to rein in inflation by rapid and aggressive tightening. Advanced economies face a tightrope walk to avoid a recession, but strong household and corporate balance sheets and tight labour markets imply sufficient sources of resilience in the near-term. Still, further upside inflation surprises could tip the global economy into a recession. The eurozone is most at risk in this respect, as a complete Russian ban of gas exports would have severe economic consequences.

Despite the inevitable economic slowdown, in its baseline scenario the Management Company still expects that a global recession will be avoided. This is based upon the assumption that the current supply shocks (and thus inflation) don't intensify but gradually ease, allowing central banks to increasingly focus on supporting economic activity. In this baseline scenario, the war also does not escalate any further, there are no more severe COVID-lockdowns in China. However, because of the great uncertainty surrounding the outlook, the Management Company has also made two alternative scenarios. In the alternative negative scenario, supply shocks do intensify into a perfect storm, resulting in further upside inflation surprises which would force central banks to be more aggressive. The result would be a global recession. In the Management Company's alternative positive scenario, the supply shocks would fade quickly, allowing central banks to take their foot of the brake. The Management Company acknowledges that the risks to the baseline are skewed to the negative alternative scenario.

With respect to monetary policy, in its baseline scenario the Management Company assumes that central banks in the major advanced economies will not overplay their hand while trying to tame inflation. Although the Management Company does expect that the Fed, BoE and ECB will (continue to) hike interest rates until year-end, the Management Company expects the focus to gradually shift to weakening growth. This should be possible, as inflation pressures slowly moderate in the baseline scenario. This implies frontloading of rate hikes over the next few months to combat inflation, with policy rates peaking a bit below the levels that markets until recently had priced in. Especially the ECB will be susceptible to respond to slowing growth, as worries for Southern European debt sustainability have already forced the ECB to announce plans for an 'anti-fragmentation' instrument that will limit the spread between borrowing costs of more stable countries and their Southern counterparts. The BoE likely faces the most difficult situation, as inflation is expected to peak only late-2022 when the default energy price cap will be reset, while the UK is already on the brink of a recession in the baseline scenario.

Bond markets outlook

Eurozone government bond yields have been rising over the last half year, but eurozone government bonds are still rather expensive compared to history. The recent rise seems to be based on expectations for overly aggressive ECB tightening. The Management Company does not expect this, as the ECB seems committed to prevent any significant further widening of spreads between Southern European countries and the German Bund. The eurozone will also be faced with slowing growth due to the war in Ukraine. Therefore, the Management Company does not expect longer-term yields to rise much more until the end of the year. Nevertheless, the threat of inflation surprising to the upside (forcing the ECB to be more aggressive) makes the Management Company cautious, explaining its neutral stance.

Equity markets outlook

Equity market corrections have made valuations fall around or a bit below their long-run averages. At the same time, the global economy and corporate earnings have so far held up relatively well, because of strong consumer and corporate balance sheets. Therefore, a recession is still not the Management Company's baseline scenario. Next to that, the Management Company believes that central banks have approached peak hawkishness, make further upside policy surprises less likely. Investor sentiment also seems to have bottomed out for now. Combined, this leads to a change in the equity allocation of the mixed funds from underweight to neutral. The Management Company does not want to overweight its equity allocation, as the outlook still points to slowing growth and reduced liquidity, and further inflation surprises are a realistic risk.

Sustainable investment opportunities

The Management Company continues to see opportunities in the sustainable investment landscape. The European Green Deal, the EU's roadmap for making its economy sustainable, has become even more important in light of the war in Ukraine and Europe's dependency on Russian fossil fuels. The related green taxonomy will enable investors to steer their investments towards more sustainable technologies and businesses, and the creation of an EU Green Bond Standard will deliver a uniform tool for assessing green bonds. Last year's implemented Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation (SFDR), part of the EU's Green Deal, will also continue to make investors more aware of financial risks related to sustainability and will to some extent limit the options for greenwashing. The Green Deal will also force companies to become more transparent.

Besides in Europe, the Management Company expects to continue to find sustainable investment opportunities in Japan, where corporate governance continues to improve due to top-down governance initiatives while bottom up the Sustainable Development Goals are high on companies' agendas. In the US, there are still interesting pioneers in the smaller company space. Overall, the Management Company will continue to contribute to the envisioned transition by focusing on investments that support climate mitigation and adaptation and the fulfilment of the SDGs in this decade.

Notes to the Financial Statements as at 30 June 2022

Note 1 - General

Triodos SICAV I is an open-ended investment company with a designated management company, incorporated under the laws of the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg as a “Société d’Investissement à Capital Variable” (SICAV) in the form of a “société anonyme”. Triodos SICAV I is governed by the law of the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg of 10 August 1915 on commercial companies, as amended, and by part I of the Law of 17 December 2010, as amended. Triodos SICAV I has appointed Triodos Investment Management as its authorised UCITS management company.

The fund (and each of its sub-funds) does not qualify as a “structured UCITS” within the meaning of article 36(1) of Commission Regulation (EU) No 583/2010 of 1 July 2010 implementing Directive 2009/65/EC.

The fund has been incorporated under the name of Triodos SICAV I for an unlimited period. The registered office of Triodos SICAV I is established at 11-13, Boulevard de la Foire, L-1528 Luxembourg.

Note 2 - Summary of significant accounting policies

The financial statements are prepared in accordance with Luxembourg regulations relating to investment funds using the following significant accounting policies.

a) Valuation of investments

The value of such assets is determined as follows:

The value of any cash on hand or on deposit, bills and demand notes and accounts receivable, prepaid expenses, cash dividends and interests declared or accrued as aforesaid and not yet received is deemed to be the full amount thereof, unless in any case the same is unlikely to be paid or received in full, in which case the value thereof is arrived at after making such discount as may be considered appropriate in such case to reflect the true value thereof.

The value of transferable securities, money market instruments and any other financial assets listed or dealt in on a regulated market, a stock exchange in another state or on any other regulated market is based on the last available price on the relevant market which is normally the principal market for such assets.

In the event that any assets are not listed or dealt in on any regulated market, any stock exchange in another state or on any other regulated market, or if, with respect to assets listed or dealt in on any such markets, the price as determined above is not representative of the fair market value of the relevant assets, the value of such assets will be based on reasonably foreseeable sales prices determined prudently and in good faith by the Board of Directors.

b) Net realised profit / (loss) on sales of investments

The net realised profit / (loss) on sales of investments is calculated on the basis of average cost of investments sold.

c) Foreign exchange translation

Triodos SICAV I maintains its accounting records in euros and its financial statements are expressed in this currency.

Assets and liabilities which are not denominated in euros are translated into euros at the rate of exchange prevailing in Luxembourg at applicable exchange rates at the end of the year.

Income and expenses in currencies other than euros are translated into euros at the applicable exchange rates prevailing on the transaction date. Resulting realised and unrealised foreign exchange gains or losses are included in the statement of operations and changes in net assets. The exchange rates used at 30 June 2022 are:

1 EUR = 1.520323 AUD	1 EUR = 123.255129 KES
1 EUR = 5.467120 BRL	1 EUR = 10.328799 NOK
1 EUR = 1.000862 CHF	1 EUR = 1.681464 NZD
1 EUR = 7.436638 DKK	1 EUR = 10.713115 SEK
1 EUR = 0.860842 GBP	1 EUR = 1.045450 USD
1 EUR = 142.029592 JPY

d) Income from investments

Interest on fixed income securities is accrued prorata temporis on each net asset calculation date and dividends are accrued on an ex-dividend basis.

e) Allocation of expenses

Each sub-fund shall pay for the general costs and expenses directly attributable to it. These fees are all part of the service fee.

General costs and expenses that cannot be attributed to a given sub-fund shall be allocated to the sub-funds, in proportion to their respective net assets. These fees are all part of the service fee.

Since the introduction of MiFID II on 3 January 2018, research costs have to be paid either by the fund, or by the investment manager. The choice was made to have the investment manager pay for the research costs. No research costs are allocated to the sub-funds.

f) Formation expenses

The costs and expenses of the formation of the fund have been borne by the fund and amortised over a period of five years. Expenses incurred in connection with the creation of any additional sub-fund shall be borne by the relevant sub-fund and, where applicable, will be written off in proportion to their net assets over a period not exceeding five years.

Note 3 - Determination of the net asset value of shares

The net asset value per share of each sub-fund is expressed in the reference currency of the relevant sub-fund and is calculated for each sub-fund by dividing the assets of such sub-fund less its liabilities by the number of shares in issue in respect of such sub-fund.

Note 4 - Fees

4.1 Management fees

The annual management fee of each sub-fund is used to cover charges and expenses of the sub-fund to be paid to the management company, the investment manager (if any) and the distributors of each sub-fund in relation to share distribution (if applicable). The annual management fee is accrued daily out of the assets attributable to the relevant class of shares or sub-fund as a percentage of the net asset value.

* Triodos Future Generations Fund was launched on 31 March 2022.

4.2 Service fees

The annual service fee of the sub-fund is also used to cover all charges and expenses to the depositary, the administrative agent, the registrar and transfer agent, the domiciliary agent and the paying agent. The annual service fee is accrued daily out of the assets attributable to the relevant class of shares or sub-fund as a percentage of the net asset value.

The share classes incur a fixed annual service fee to cover the expenses related to the administration and safekeeping of assets, and other ongoing operating and administrative expenses. The service fee is fixed in the sense that the management company bears the excess of any such expenses above the rate specified for each share class in the table below. Conversely, the management company is entitled to retain any amount by which the rate of these fees to be borne by the share classes, as set out in the table below, exceeds the actual expenses incurred by the relevant class of the relevant sub-fund.

The percentages of the service fees are as follows:

Service fee

Sub-fund	Fee R-class, R-H-class, Z-class and KR-class	Fee I-class, KI-class, K-I-II class, I-II class, P class and U-II-class

Triodos Future Generations Fund*	0.20% p.a.	0.15% p.a.

* Triodos Future Generations Fund was launched on 31 March 2022.

4.3 Taxes

All payable taxes are charged separately to the fund, value added tax exempted. This mainly reverts to the Subscription taxes as mentioned in Note 1 and 6.

Note 5 - Distributions

In each class of shares within each sub-fund, the Board of Directors may issue capitalisation shares and distribution shares. Distribution shares may pay a dividend to their holders, whereas capitalisation shares capitalise their entire earnings.

The annual general meeting shall decide, on recommendation of the Board of Directors, what share of Triodos SICAV I's profits shall be distributed from each relevant class of shares. Consequently, the annual general meeting may approve, for each sub-fund or class of shares, the distribution of the net income and capital gains, realised or unrealised, after deduction of capital losses, realised or unrealised. The amounts corresponding to income attributable to the shares of a class for which it was decided not to pay a dividend will be capitalised in the assets of the class concerned.

Note 6 - Subscription tax

Triodos SICAV I is currently not liable to any Luxembourg tax on profits or income, nor are distributions paid by Triodos SICAV I liable to any Luxembourg withholding tax. Triodos SICAV I is, however, liable to an annual subscription tax in Luxembourg, which in principle amounts to 0.05% per annum of its net asset value, such tax being payable quarterly on the basis of the value of the aggregate net assets of the sub-funds at the end of the relevant calendar quarter. However, such rate may be reduced to 0.01% per annum of the net asset value for specific classes of shares or sub-funds which are restricted to institutional investors (Class I, Class I-II, Class KI, Class K-I-II, Class U-I-II and Class P shares). Furthermore, if some sub-funds invest in other Luxembourg UCIs which in turn are subject to the annual subscription tax, no annual subscription tax is payable by Triodos SICAV I on the portion of assets invested therein.

Sustainability-related disclosures

Introduction

As an impact investor, sustainability is at the core of all investment activities of Triodos Investment Management. Due to the development of the EU Sustainable Action Plan and specifically SFDR, specific sustainability-related information is enclosed in this semi-annual report. The sub-funds of Triodos SICAV I have sustainable investment as their objective as set out in article 9 of the SFDR.

The laws and regulations regarding SFDR and the quantitative assessment of the general sustainability impact and sustainability indicators are still under development. Therefore, the sustainability-related information related to SFDR for the 2022 semi-annual report is still limited to qualitative information. More information on sustainability and the impact of Triodos SICAV I and its sub-funds can be found in the annual impact report published on www.triodos-im.com.

The overall objective of the sub-funds of Triodos SICAV I is to maximise positive impact in alignment with the investment policy. The sub-funds generate positive impact by investing in listed companies that provide sustainable solutions and by being active stewards of the planet and society.

The sub-funds invest in seven themes that are instrumental in the transition towards a sustainable economy and society. The themes, that are very much aligned to the UN Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), are derived from global mega-trends that we believe will shape the future. The themes are:

1. Sustainable Food and Agriculture
2. Renewable Resources
3. Circular Economy
4. Sustainable Mobility and Infrastructure
5. Innovation for Sustainability
6. Prosperous and Healthy People
7. Social Inclusion and Empowerment

For the attainment of their sustainable investment objectives, the sub-funds of Triodos SICAV I measure their exposure to the seven Triodos transition themes, their contribution to the SDGs and their ecological footprint (CO₂ footprint, water footprint and waste footprint).

Triodos Euro Bond Impact Fund

All corporate investments and impact bonds from (sub-)sovereign issuers contribute to at least one of the transition themes. All seven transition themes are represented in the sub-fund with the largest exposure at period-end to Sustainable Mobility and Infrastructure. The exposure of the sub-fund to the SDGs is significantly higher than that of the benchmark. The sub-fund particularly contributes to SDG 3 (Good Health and Well-Being), SDG 11 (Sustainable Cities and Communities) and SDG 10 (Reduced Inequalities). The CO₂, water and waste footprints of the sub-fund are lower than those of the benchmark. Creating further positive impact and mitigating negative effects of the sub-fund remained the focus in our intensive engagement activities in the first half of 2022. This is in line with the sub-fund's sustainable investment objective.

Triodos Global Equities Impact Fund

All seven transition themes are represented in the sub-fund with the largest exposure at period-end to Prosperous and Healthy People. The exposure of the sub-fund to the SDGs is significantly higher than that of the benchmark. The sub-fund particularly contributes to SDG 3 (Good Health and Well-Being), SDG 10 (Reduced Inequalities) and SDG 11 (Sustainable Cities and Communities). The CO₂ and water use footprints of the sub-fund are lower than those of the benchmark. The waste footprint of the sub-fund is higher than that of the benchmark. This larger relative footprint stems from concentration of investments in a few large manufacturing companies in the sub-fund. These companies are selected for their contribution to other transition themes like circularity. Creating further positive impact and mitigating negative effects of the sub-fund remained the focus in our intensive engagement activities in the first half of 2022. This is in line with the sub-fund's sustainable investment objective.

Triodos Sterling Bond Impact Fund

All corporate investments and bonds from sub-sovereign issuers contribute to at least one of the transition themes. At period-end, the sub-fund is still exposed to general sovereign bonds. The aim is to reduce this percentage by further increasing the exposure to impact bonds and corporate bonds. Of all the seven transition themes, five are represented in the sub-fund with the largest exposure at period-end to Social Inclusion and Empowerment. The exposure of the sub-fund to the SDGs is significantly higher than that of the benchmark. The sub-fund particularly contributes to SDG 11 (Sustainable Cities and Communities), SDG 10 (Reduced Inequalities) and SDG 13 (Climate Action). The CO₂, water and waste footprints of the sub-fund are lower than those of the benchmark. Creating further positive impact and mitigating negative effects of the sub-fund remained the focus in our intensive engagement activities in the first half of 2022. This is in line with the sub-fund's sustainable investment objective.

Tracing its roots to the European Transparency Guidelines unveiled in 2004, the European SRI Transparency Code, first launched in May 2008, primarily aims at increasing accountability and clarity of SRI practices for European investors. The principle driving the Code is that asset manager signatories should be open and honest, and disclose accurate, adequate and timely information to enable stakeholders, in particular retail investors, to understand the policies and practices of a given SRI fund. The Code focuses on SRI funds distributed publicly in Europe and has been designed to cover a range of asset classes.
